About JOSEPHINE MACLEOD

Josephine is proud to call Glasgow home, where she lives with her husband and twins. She runs a health and wellbeing charity and is a committed campaigner dedicated to improving lives in Glasgow and across Scotland.

Josephine believes in community spirit and resilience. She champions hard working families and local businesses who have been let down by the SNP, and is determined to reduce NHS waiting times and bring down the cost of living and energy bills for local people.

Bringing a common sense approach, Josephine will stand up for quality education for children and young people in Easterhouse and Springburn, protect Glasgow's green spaces, and call for sustainable jobs where workers can keep more of what they earn.
